Second Announcement
International Workshop on
Wound Healing and Angiogenesis
14th – 15th December 2013
Anna University, Chennai, India

Sponsored by
European Union – Marie Curie FP7-PEOPLE-2011-IRSES - INTERBONE
(Participating countries - Italy, The Netherlands, Brazil, India, USA)

Introduction:

Blood vessels are the first organ to develop in the embryo and they constitute the largest network in the body. Angiogenesis, the formation of new blood vessels from pre-existing ones, is an essential step during wound healing. However, when unregulated this phenomenon has deadly consequences affecting multiple organs including the bone. This workshop takes a comprehensive look at the status of research and clinical perspective in the field of wound healing.

Target Audience and Participation:

This workshop would be beneficial to young investigators and early career scientists, and it would have intensive technical discussions and exchange of ideas between experienced and early career scientists. Participants will be selected for workshop based on their research interest and track record, for which you may apply by sending your latest CV (2 pages max) and statement of interest (200 words) to woundangio_workshop@yahoo.in. It is also proposed to have a limited number of poster presentations in the area of bone repair, angiogenesis and wound healing for which you may email the Abstract of your presentation along with your application.
